Phenomenology (Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy) Phenomenology is the study of structures of consciousness as experienced from the first-person point of view. The central structure of an experience is its intentionality, its being directed toward something, as it is an experience of or about some object. Phenomenology (philosophy) - Wikipedia Existential phenomenology differs from transcendental phenomenology by its rejection of the transcendental ego. Merleau-Ponty objects to the ego's transcendence of the world, which for Husserl leaves the world spread out and completely transparent before the conscious. Phenomenology | philosophy | Britannica.com Phenomenology must overcome this split, he held, and thus help humanity to live according to the demands of reason. In view of the fact that reason is the typical characteristic of humans, humankind must find itself again through phenomenology.
